Brand Awareness/New Customers

OneRedmond's Business Membership directory is promoted to new residents of Redmond as they look to find goods and services, restaurants, and so much more.

Our email list has over 17,000 subscribers from Redmond and across East King County. We announce our new members through our newsletters and social media. We coordinate ribbon cuttings and celebrate the successes of our members.

Our members are comprised of big companies like Amazon, Microsoft, Meta as well as our developers and small businesses. So our networking events and activities are an ideal way to build relationships with leaders in our community. Let's face it, referrals come from people you know. Let's build that network of yours.

OneRedmond has a strong relationship with the regional Yelp team. When they are looking to feature local businesses in our community for a certain shout out to their community, they ask us. And of course, we refer our members first.

Advocacy

Many members find value in our advocacy at the city, county, state, and federal level. OneRedmond connects with our elected leaders on a regular basis. OneRedmond works with the City on issues around revolving around business fees and taxes, permitting, as well as the vision for Redmond 2050. Often times you will see our CEO testifying at the state legislature on issues from small business support, to transportation, to affordable housing. To build and maintain a vibrant economy, we need to ensure that our small businesses voices are heard.

Our Candidate Forums and our new Coffee with Leaders series is designed for our members to meet our elected leadership in a casual format. This is an ideal way to build that relationship and to get your views heard.

Fun!

Yes, we said fun! Being a part of the OneRedmond community is fun. From the Summertime Redmond Wine Walk that draws over 400 people, to our Redmond International Winter Market that draws thousands. Our events are designed to activate and engage our community.
